TASTINGS
NOVEMBER 21, 2009

“We bought every Carmenere we saw from the 2007 and 2008 vintages—because we prefer these young and because those are the ones you are most likely to see...We tasted them in blind flights over several nights.

Our best of tasting, Terra Andina "Reserva," was at once noteworthy and highly drinkable, and seemed so warming that we thought of roast meats and fireplaces. It's a lot of wine for $11.99.”

Terra Andina 'Reserva' 2007
(Rapel Valley).

Very Good. Best of tasting.

Distinctive, with black pepper and green pepper. Relaxed, earthy and warming, with roasted fruits and a long, meaty finish.
